personal project

Explore an area of future interest within a global context. Critically examine the current challenges and use a critical thinking process to generate, test and refine a solution, product or outcome.

You will need to employ a range of research methodology to better understand your problem and think of a way to communicate and present your solution to the wider community.

What will you be doing?

As the project manager, you will need to determine how you allocate resources to meet project deadlines. These resources include your timetabled lessons as well as your Ad Astra teacher and industry mentor.

The role of reflection is critical throughout this process and your progress will need to be logged in your digital portfolio. Your teacher mentors will review these twice a term and provide ongoing feedback throughout.

Time Allocation

Two allocated lessons per 10-day cycle

Deliverables

- Digital reflective learning journal
- The personal project
- Exhibition

Contact

Program Coordinator
Stephanie Spiller
stephanie.spiller@cggs.act.edu.au